The Boston Area Rape Crisis Center is the only rape crisis center in the Greater Boston area. Our vision is to end sexual violence through healing and social change. Founded in 1973, BARCC is a national leader in providing comprehensive, free rape crisis services and community awareness and prevention services.

Volunteer with BARCC. As a BARCC volunteer, you will make a difference in the lives of sexual violence survivors and their families, and help strengthen your community.

Make a donation to BARCC. When you give to BARCC, you help us continue to provide free services and bring us closer to our goal of ending sexual violence.

If you or someone you care about has been sexually assaulted, reaching out for help can be the first step toward healing.

BARCC offers free, confidential services to survivors as young as 12, their friends and families.

BARCC helps survivors from all backgrounds and is knowledgeable about all types of sexual violence.

You will be welcomed and treated with respect.

Whether the assault took place yesterday or many years ago, BARCC is here to help you now. If the assault happened within the last 5 days, please go to www.barcc.org/help, or call our hotline, for the most up-to-date information on what you can do.

Sexual violence disrupts the lives of survivors and those who care about them. BARCC is committed to giving survivors and their families and friends the resources they need to reclaim their lives and begin healing.

Visit our website, www.barcc.org, to:
Explore common reactions to sexual violence. Sexual violence can trigger a range of feelings and reactions including guilt, fear, anger, avoidance, distrust, and loss of control. No matter how you are feeling, with BARCC you are not alone.

Identify resources in your town, on your campus, and online. In addition to the services BARCC provides through our offices, we can help you identify additional resources through our online database.

Read about legal definitions of sexual violence and other related acts. If you or someone you know has had an experience with sexual violence, you may be unsure what to call it—or if it was illegal.

Speak out. Speaking out is an important part of creating the social change we need to end sexual violence. BARCC can help you find safe and effective ways to make your voice heard.

Raise awareness of sexual violence and ways to prevent it. Invite BARCC to speak at your school, agency, organization, workplace, or place of worship. Attend or arrange a Clothesline Project art display. Host an event to support BARCC.

Get active with BARCC. You can help BARCC continue to make a difference in the lives of thousands of survivors of sexual violence, and in communities, by getting involved.
